WITTE, DISGUSTED,
WILLING TO RESIGNCzar's Ear Again Given to Reactionaries.

TROUBLES MULTIPLYING

Appalling Atrocities Throughout Empire Have Discouraged Czar's
New Premier.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—A private advice from St. Petersburg states that Count Witte has expressed himself thoroughly discouraged with his task and is willing to resign so soon as he finds that men of prominence and not mere conditions are blocking the way to Russian reform.

It is estimated in that dispatch that the prime minister has the best reasons to believe that the Czar is again listening to the advice of the reactionary element around him and that, so soon as he has indisputable proof of the success of this agitation, Witte will resign his post.

While there may be no actual basis for these statements, the fact remains that the count's task of reconstructing the Russian empire daily grows more difficult. Assailed by the court party and distrusted by the people, he is working practically alone. None of the political factions in the capital have fully given their support; several of them have on the other hand expressed open hostility.

Miracles Expected.

Miracles are apparently expected, and because miracles are expected, Count Witte is a target for abuse. Leaders of the court party are denouncing him to the Czar because he has done nothing. Leaders of the socialist revolutionaries are denouncing him to the people for the same reason. Between the two millstones the premier is being surely ground to powder.

There is every reason to assume that the premier is becoming discouraged and disheartened by this opposition. He expected the antagonism of the bureaucracy, but not the unanimous distrust of the people, which has hampered every effort in these first days of political freedom. An already reported the latest development regarding the Duma is that twenty members are to be added as representatives of the men in Russian factories employing over 100 hands.

Count Witte is said to be negotiating with some participants with a view to working for the transformation of the congress itself into a preliminary constituent assembly. The Russ, speaking for the democrats, strongly urged the premier to invite the forthcoming congress to St. Petersburg with the addition of delegates from the Professional Men's Association, which played a decisive role in the general strike, beginning with the preparations last spring.

Troubles Collect.

The Agrarian disturbances, together with the appalling Hebrew massacres have added materially to the difficulty of Count Witte's task. The recent dismissal of the eleven provincial governors is regarded as a preliminary sacrifice to the great international Jewish financiers, with a view to reopening negotiations for a loan.

No successors have been appointed. It will be exceedingly difficult to find officials familiar with the administration of affairs who are not imbued with the ideas of the old regime, especially the notion that the worst enemies of the state are those who extorted concessions during the past year.

Reports from a number of towns state that the Jews anticipating a renewal of the outrages are arming themselves. The densely populated Hebrew quarter in Warsaw is being guarded by a volunteer corps, armed with rifles and revolvers. The members have sworn that, if attacked they will die fighting. The plans for anti-Semitic disorders in St. Petersburg are now assuming definite shape. New proclamations were distributed yesterday in the Alexander Market, where many Jewish second-hand shops are located, calling upon the Christians to rise and exterminate the Jews.

MRS. PELL WILL RUN
FASHIONABLE HOTELWill Not Take "Just Anyone" Into Her Hostelry at Harrogate.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Harrogate, the fashionable watering place in Yorkshire, is to be more fashionable than ever this year, as far as Americans are concerned. Mrs. Mercer Pell, of New York, having solved her matrimonial difficulties, is taking over the management of the Grand Hotel there with brilliant prospects of success.

The American ambassador and Mrs. Whitehead Reid have promised to recommend their friends to go there, and already several parties of Americans have been made up to spend several weeks in the hotel. Mrs. Pell has told her friends plainly that she will not take "just anyone." She will make the hotel exclusive, and also as interesting as possible. She has even suggested taking one or two really amusing and entertaining people at very low rates—people who would keep everybody in good spirits, and more especially those who are taking the very nasty waters for which Harrogate is famous.

Mrs. Pell is determined to keep all the "books" of the hotel herself, just as she did in the small London hotel she successfully ran near Cavendish square. She will also take her meals with her guests, and be "as one of them."

Spaniard Steers Ships
While Standing on ShoreGerman Government Said to Have Bought
His Invention With View of Repelling Possible Overwhelming British Attack.

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—The navy department has followed with intense interest the experiments in driving and steering ships by electric power from the shore which have recently been made at Bilbao, and negotiations have been opened with the inventor, a Spanish engineer, to sell his invention to the German government for an enormous sum.

The experiments at Bilbao, which were conducted under the auspices of the Spanish navy department and the inventor, Senor Torres Quevedo, proved that from a transmitting station on the shore he was able to steer a torpedo boat with the same accuracy as if he were standing at the helm, and a large amount has been placed at his disposal by the Spanish government to enable him to develop his invention.

Beyond the fact that the invention is founded on the principles which make wireless telegraphy possible, nothing is known of it here, but to a country like Germany, which is always fearing an attack by a British fleet far superior to her own, it would undoubtedly be of inestimable value.

PENT-UP QUARTERS FOR ALEXANDRA'S BROTHER

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Although Queen Alexandra would have infinitely preferred to entertain her brother, the King of Greece, in a private manner at Windsor Castle and thus enjoy "family chats" with him, King Edward would not hear of it.

His majesty insisted that the king of the Hellenes should be received in full state. The suite of apartments allotted to the King of Greece and Prince and Princess Nicholas are known as the "Sovereigns' Suite," and are about as uncomfortable as most state rooms can be.

Fortunately, since Queen Victoria's death, much has been done to add to the comfort of guests at Windsor Castle. Sovereigns, in early Victorian days, were forced to be content with "a tub" in their state apartments. Up-to-date bathrooms now make up for any minor discomforts which state visitors may suffer. In fact, electric light, telephones, and modern heating apparatus have made the private part of Windsor Castle as comfortable as any large country house. It is only the "State" visitor who suffers.

MISS BREESE WINS
OVER LADY ANCASTERTakes Her Proud Future Stepmother by Storm—The Earl Long Ago Succumbed.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The wedding of Miss Eloise Breeze to Lord Willoughby de Eresby, which is definitely fixed to take place on December 6, will be the smartest function of the winter.

Miss Breeze has, with characteristic American frankness, intimated to her friends that she intends to make her mother-in-law, the Countess of Ancas-ter, like her, and she is certainly succeeding. Lady Ancester, who is one of the most exclusive and proud grand dames in the country, has been entertaining Miss Breeze at the principal family seat, Grimsthorpe, and has thawed out to the extent of putting a suite at the castle at the disposal of Miss Breeze when she becomes Lady Willoughby de Eresby.

The earl, however, succumbed long ago to the charms of his future American daughter-in-law. It goes without saying that the dowagers with marriageable daughters are green with envy at this latest American triumph.

A triumph it is admitted to be, as Lord Willoughby is not a poverty-stricken peer and will succeed to huge estates and one of the oldest and proudest titles in England. Lord Willoughby has bought Miss Breeze three fine hunt-ers. The bride-to-be is a very good horsewoman and the couple will hunt after the honeymoon at Melton Mowbray.

MRS. FRANK MACKAY WILL VISIT AMERICA

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Frank Mackay has completely altered her plans for the winter. Mr. Mackay is the most indulgent of husbands, but his wife's devotion to England and English sports has reached such a point that it is with greatest difficulty that he can induce her to visit her native heath.

Mr. Mackay has, in fact, put his foot down, and instead of hunting in Leicestershire, Mrs. Mackay has consented to accompany her husband to California in December. The trip is a purely business one, connected with the Mackay property.

A Special Sale of

TABLE LINENS

It comes right in the nick of time for Thanksgiving and Christmas feasting, and better table linens were never shown over the counter of this store or spread upon your dining tables.

High-class, sturdy-woven linens from the best looms of Ireland, Scotland, and Germany—some plain, others with small patterns, and others with large ones. On some the damasks and napkins match, but the interesting point is the prices. There will be more profit to the purchasers than to us on the linen we shall put out on this sale. Never a better chance to buy good linen underprice.
